

Establishing a trust for your employee savings scheme

Kingdom of Bahrain | 12 August 2020

For many years, businesses across the GCC have been establishing and administering savings schemes for employees. With the Central Bank of Bahrain (CBB) and the Economic Development Board (EDB) keen to establish Bahrain as a centre of excellence for trusts based on Bahrain's trust law, this is the right time to upgrade schemes to trusts.

What is a trust?

Trusts are legal structures that allow a third party, or trustee, to hold assets on behalf of beneficiaries. Trust counter-parties include:

- Employer - the settlor
- Employees - beneficiaries
- Trustee - administrator

Why establish a trust?

Trustees are independent parties.

Trustees act at all times in employees' best interests – even disregarding the employer's interests – when making decisions concerning investments, loans and how cash should be used and carefully and systemically protecting employee information.

Trustees are licensed and regulated by the CBB.

Bahrain's trust law obliges trustees to act in the beneficiaries' best interests and to ensure trusts are audited.

Trusts are legal vehicles which are separate from employers.

Trusts can maintain bank and investment accounts in their own name. Assets and liabilities are removed from the employer's balance sheet and recognised and ring-fenced in the trust's accounts, protecting assets from lawsuits and creditors.

Trusts are established by a trust deed and registered with the CBB.

The rights and obligations of both employers and employees are defined by legally enforceable contracts.
